Police Probe Bizarre Death

Council's Laxity Blamed For CD Lag

Auxiliary Policeman Charges City With Indifference To Volunteer Help

Leading with direct verbal blows, a member of the Daly City auxiliary police department today lashed out at the "indifference" of the city council toward the civilian defense effort here.

In an exclusive interview with THE RECORD, the officer charged the council with "complete lack of enthusiasm or interest in civilian defense."

Fearing what he termed "recriminations," the auxiliary policeman asked that his name be withheld.

Claiming he was representative of his 30 fellow auxiliary members, the resident of Daly City for the past six years took a dim view of the city council's appreciation of volunteer aid.

"The councilmen look upon us as fellows riding around in a police car having a good time. They've pretty much dismissed us by offering to buy us a whistle and club. When we ask for anything else, we can't get any satisfaction."

Need Uniforms

Asked specifically what the auxiliary officers wanted in the way of equipment, the volunteer replied that they were in need of uniforms. "We have asked for help along this line, but we get nothing but the old buck-passing."

Organized by the city council six months ago, the auxiliary force is made up of volunteers who meet eight hours a month. Their duties include augmenting the services of the regular police department in time of emergency. Volunteers receive no pay.

The auxiliary is headed by Sgt. Dave Hansen, a regular member of the police force.

Support Fails

Turning his attention to other facets of the civilian defense effort here, the auxiliary officer said a similar organization in the fire department had failed for lack of the council's support.

"I joined the auxiliary fire department a while back, but when the city showed no interest the whole thing fell apart.

"It's hard to work up enthusiasm when you get little or no encouragement from the city."

Failure of the city to organize air raid wardens and systematic air raid drills was also criticized.

"The war has been going on some two years, and I don't think they have an air raid warden in the city. I'd hate to think what would happen if they dropped a bomb around here."

In concluding the interview, the auxiliary officer said he and his fellows plan to ask for a public explanation of the civilian defense failure here at an open meeting of the city council "in the very near future."

Beware The Vicious Bee—He Stings

For some unfathomed reason, bees in Daly City have been running amok the past few weeks—but all is well with the fire department on the job.

Latest attack came Sunday at the home of Mrs. Nelson, 83 Shakespeare street. Mrs. Nelson reported that a swarm of bees had fallen on her porch and no one could get in the front door.

Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy's men responded and drowned out the unruly insects with a chemical fire extinguisher. No casualties were reported.

At various times through the past month, similar action was needed on Niantic and Franklin streets.

Beware the vicious bee.

Council Approves Record High Budget

Grant Pay Hikes For Recreation Departm't.

Adoption of the record high city budget of $647,914 for 1952-53 was the principal business before the city council at an adjourned meeting Monday night.

The budget, $75,000 higher than last year, is not expected to effect the tax rate of $1.29 per $100 assessed valuation.

A request by the Recreation Commission for a wage boost for part time recreation directors was approved by the council. The hike of 10 cents an hour will bring minimum and maximum hourly wages to $1.20 and $1.40 respectively.

Flood Lights

Flood lights for the lower level of Marchbanks park were tentatively approved. However, the council requested City Administrator Dan Andersen to make a

Fire Razes Colma Stables Tuesday

The combined efforts of the Daly City and Colma fire departments couldn't save the Hollywood riding stables, Reiner and Mission streets, Colma, which were completely gutted Tuesday in a fire that blazed out of control for 15 minutes.

Estimated damage amounts to $5,000, and owner George Bertucci—also a member of the Colma fire department—says it will have to be razed.

Five horses and twenty-four saddles that were in the barn when the fire broke out were safely removed, but 25 bales of hay went up in smoke. Twenty other horses owned by the stables were turned out to pasture at the time.

Police report that the fire was started when an unidentified teenager knocked over an oil lantern in the manager's office.

Original report of the blaze was made by phone to the Daly City police, who relayed it to the local fire department. Three pieces of fire-fighting equipment from Daly City responded, and were joined by another from the Colma department.

Colma Fire Chief Louis Nannini, after the blaze, estimated that the building would have to be completely torn down.

Board Approves Record High School Budget

Tax Rate Boost To $1.52 Seen

A record high 1952-53 budget of $787,644 was tentatively approved for the Jefferson elementary school board Tuesday evening.

Necessity of boosting the budget almost half again the size of the last fiscal year's figure of $534,000 was brought about by an increase in personnel and a wage hike for teachers.

Taxpayers are going to feel the budget to the depths of their pocketbooks, for the tax rate is going from 93c per $100 assessed valuation to the maximum allowed by law, $1.52. This, topped by a 50 per cent increase in assessed valuation, will mean the average citizen will be paying more for schools during the next fiscal year than in any year in the history of the district.

However, H. Z. Weibel, superintendent of schools, observed the taxpayers approved the hike by a three-to-one vote early this year.

Good Use

What are the extra dollars going to mean to the district? Weibel says the money will be employed to:

1. Raise teachers salaries to a minimum of $3,500 and to a maximum of $5,825. Last year's figures were $2,925 and $4,875 respectively.

2. There will be 22 new classroom teachers hired this fall, to bring the total to 107 for 1952-53.

3. Additional specialized personnel is to be employed including a full time education director; a curriculum coordinator; an instrumental music teacher; a speech training teacher; an additional nurse and a bus driver and custodian.

4. The funds also will allow purchase of additional supplies including much needed library books.

"While the budget may appear high it is geared to get much needed improvements, and in the opinion of the board is necessary to continue a highlevel educational program for the district," Weibel said.

High School Tax Rate May Be Cut

Despite a $179,199 increase in the Jefferson high school district budget for 1952-53, the school board is working to cut back the current $1.25 tax rate, THE RECORD learned today.

The tentative total budget for the coming fiscal year has been fixed at $804,390, as compared with $625,199 for 1951-52. An extensive repair job on the high school pool, purchase of additional property in Sharp Park for another high school, hiring of two more teachers, and repairs and additions to the present building have necessitated the increase.

An increase of 50 per cent in assessed valuations for the district will give the school board a larger tax base. Consequently the board hopes when the final assessed valuation figures are in the tax base will be enough greater than the past year to allow a cut in the current $1.25 tax levy.

It was just two months ago that voters overwhelmingly agreed to maintain the $1.35 tax limit. The school board had asked for this in case there was a need to raise the tax rate to meet expenditures.

"However, with any luck at all, and a great deal of planning we should be able to at least hold the line on the current tax, and possibly cut it back some," Thomas Callan, board member, said today.

BUCKING A FIRE HOSE last Thursday afternoon this member of the Daly City fire department helped to stem a blaze which for a time threatened construction of new apartments in Westlake. At noon Thursday workmen turned their backs on a sheet metal pot, and a moment later a strong breeze carried a spark to the roof of an apartment under construction at Lynnewood and Bel Mar streets. Fanned by the wind and encouraged by the hot sun the spark broke into flames which soon enveloped the whole roof. Firemen, however, managed to check the fire before it did more than slight damage to the apartment top.

Transportation Survey To Be Basis For Discussion On Needed Service

A Westlake transportation survey, completed this week, may be a convincing factor in bringing San Francisco bus service to Westlake.

This is the hope of city councilmen who plan to meet with officials of the San Francisco municipal railroad early this month to discuss the Westlake bus headache and Daly City transportation problems in general.

The city is working for extension of San Francisco municipal bus service to Westlake.

Until now the San Francisco buses have shied away from Westlake because officials assert "there just isn't enough business." Not so, indicate the report. Of the close to 6,000 residents in Westlake, 3,639 have indicated they would use bus service during the week.

There was a sour note in the report for businessmen on "top-of-the-hill" who hope to draw on Westlake residents. Shuttle service along Alemany through Westlake to St. Francis Circle was preferred by 62 per cent, while only 38 per cent favored taking a shuttle via Knowles street to Mission.

No mention was made of a plan to re-route the Broadmoor shuttle through Westlake.

Satisfied

Only about 20 per cent of residents in Westlake are satisfied with present service. . . . 15 per cent prefer the Greyhound bus line while a small 4 per cent favor the Ocean Shore bus line.

Other points in the report were:

1. Five days a week bus service is most popular with residents, with 1,528 saying they would ride a bus Monday through Friday.

2. Occasional riders make up

Three Local Bookies Face Fine and Jail

Milo, Schiappacasse, Swanson Before Court

A convicted San Mateo county bookie, son of a former well-known grocery store owner here, was sentenced to three months in jail and placed on two years probation this week.

He is Ernest Milo, 38, well-known figure in Daly City. His companion, Fred Mackota, 38, 375 Crescent avenue, San Francisco, was sentenced to one year in jail.

Mackotal and Milo were charged with the felony bookmaking offenses in a grand jury indictment returned March 25 and were found guilty by a supreior court jury June 17.

The arrests followed a raid by sheriff's officers on their betting parlor in the upstairs rooms of 1907 Bayshore highway, south of San Mateo, on January 31.

Andersen will discuss various facets of city government and attempt to explain the average citizen's roll in municipal affairs.

Brunswick Street Extension Work Is Now Under Way

State Supreme Court Denies Smith's Appeal

The song of jack hammers and picks soon will be heard in the big cut through Smith's rock quarry to Hillside boulevard, as the city rushes to complete the Brunswick street extension, a job started more than six months ago.

Work has been held up by litigation between H. H. Smith, former mayor of Daly City and owner of the land, the contractor and the city.

The city won a final victory this week when the state supreme court turned its back on Smith's request for a hearing on an adverse decision made by the circuit court of appeals. The court had ruled the city must pay Smith $4,500 for the right-of-way

SF Fisherman Shot At Beach

"I've seen men drown with their ship before," said Howard Miller, 34-year-old construction worker and companion of Challis Detwiler, who was killed by gunshot Tuesday afternoon at Thornton beach, "but I've never seen them shot.

He was bleeding from the nose and mouth and ears when I found him...when we laid him on the ground you could hear that rattling noise and someone said, 'He's finished'."

Detwiler, 36, of 626 Russia avenue, San Francisco, died at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at Thornton beach where he and Miller had gone fishing.

.22 Rifle

A 22-caliber hollow nose bullet from a rifle they had taken for target practice, entered Detwiler's temple above the right ear, richochetted around the skull and remained in the brain cavity.

Inspector R. L. Lamport, investigator from the district attorney's office, questioned Miller and said the "circumstances strongly indicate suicide."

Daly City police, who began investigation of the case, expressed the opinion that death "was probably accidental." They added that a coroner's inquest will be held some time next week to determine the exact nature of the killing.

Construction Workers

Both Miller and Detwiler were hoist engineers doing construction work, said police. They had become friends through their union, but had not seen each other for some time previous to the day of death.

They met in San Francisco on Tuesday and had been drinking together since early morning, said Sgt. Roy Beecher of the Daly City police. Earlier in the day, they reportedly sideswiped a parked car with the late model automobile that Detwiler was driving.

Miller, who lives at the Royal hotel, 15th and Valencia, San Francisco, said they decided to go fishing while at Detwiler's house and took the .22 rifle along for target practice.

They parked at the beach and Miller went back to the trunk of the car to rig his fishing tackle. "I'm not very good at it," he said, "and I yelled at Detwiler, 'How far up do you put the sinker?' He didn't answer and I went up to the front where he was to ask him for a hand.

Tried To Get Help

"He was sitting there in the front seat with blood coming out of his nose and mouth and ears. I thought he had hemmoraged and tried to get someone to go for a doctor. Then I ran back to get his keys so I could drive him right up to the hospital.

"But when I reached for the keys, he collapsed in my arms. I let him down to the ground and a doctor who was on the beach came up. The doctor tried to help him, but he died a few minutes later."

Police held Miller overnight for investigation, and released him early Wednesday morning, saying

Launch Million Dollar School Building Program

Bids For Elementary Construction Called

In a relentless effort to stamp out double sessions in the elementary schools, a million dollar building program is to be launched by the Jefferson elementary school board Monday, July 14.

At a special meeting, to be attended by state and county dignitaries, the school board will open bids for the following projects:

1. An addition of 15 classrooms for the Colma primary and upper grade school. To date eight of the 23 rooms have been constructed. Estimate for the total job is $992,-664.

2. An upper grade school for Garden Village. Orignal plans called for 18 classrooms, plus, but a reduction in state aid last November has cut this to four rooms. The state finances were cut back on the premise that enrollment here has not advanced sufficiently to warrant more than about one-half the number of classes approved in a special bond election here two years ago.

Woodrow Wilson

3. A multiple purpose room for Woodrow Wilson school, plus playground development. Estimated cost $119,536.

4. A multiple purpose room for the new Westlake school. Cost still to be estimated.

Bids were called on these jobs at the regular meeting of the school board last Thursday night.

Superintendent of Schools H. Z. Weibel noted, however, none of this construction would eleviate the condition which will see almost all classes on double sessions this fall.

"The most we can hope for is some relief in the fall of 1953," Weibel said.

More Plans

Other plans for future construction were also discussed at the meeting. Plans for two additional schools in Westlake were explained by Mario Ciampi, architect.

As of today, the school board hopes to construct a kindergarten through the fourth grade school on a three-acre site on the north side of Alemany near the Olympic Club.

A first grade through sixth grade school will go up on another

Colma Couple Adopt DP German Child -- Karl To Become Tommy

Tommy Cheskey — who isn't really Tommy Cheskey yet—gets along just fine with his playmates in the Louvaine drive neighborhood of Colma and manages to make it clear to his mother what he wants and how he feels.

Which wouldn't be the least unusual except that Tommy just arrived from Germany and knows only three English words; they being "hello," "goodbye," and "gimme."

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cheskey of 1823 Louvaine drive, Colma, applied to adopt Tommy—whose real name is still Karl Wehrmann—over a year ago.

Problems Remain

He arrived via TWA airlines at Mills field Wednesday, June 18.

Having waded through the official red-tape necessary to bring a European child) Tommy is just shy of six years old) to this country, the Cheskeys now have just three small problems.

They must still go through formal adoption proceedings for Tommy, they have to officially change his name, and they want him to learn English in time to begin the Eall semester at Holy Angei's school.

In the meantime, the little German-American youngster whose straight-back posture would do credit to a profession soldier, feels quite at home with his new parents.

He has taken to his new name, says Mrs. Cheskey, like a duck to water, and communicates with her, Mr. Cheskey, and children in the neighborhood by a mixture of English, German and gestures.

The son of a German mother and an American GI father, Tommy has spent most of his life in a Catholic convent near Seldasind, Germany.

He was flown to this country by Sabena, the Belgian airline, which brought him as far as New York city. From there, TWA brought him to Mills Field, with a German family keeping him company on the last leg of the trip.

"Just the same," says Mrs.

that his story "rang true."

Inspector Lamport of the district attorney's office said he could not have accidentally shot himself because of the gun's safety lock.

Miller said he failed to hear the shot, but admitted to police that his hearing had been impaired in World War II when a shell exploded aboard a ship he was serving on.

Miller recently returned from a construction job in French Morocco. He was asked to remain in this area until the inquest.

Cheskey," he was a pretty sad little boy his first night here. He was wearing heavy boots and clothes a size too small for him when he got off the plane, and he cried all night when we brought him home."

TV Fan

Since that time, Tommy seems to have well acclimated himself to life in Colma. His new mother reports that he has developed a liking for TV cowboys, classical music and the new clothes his foster parents bought him—he's particularly proud of his new shoes, which are a far cry from heavy boots.

A sturdy, brown-haired, brown-eyed youngster with "an appetite like a horse," Tommy will be the Cheskey's only child as soon as the adoption papers are formally ratified.

They originally applied for a child through an adoption agency in San Mateo, but grew discouraged after two years waiting failed to produce results.

They might have continued to wait for a child to be put up for adoption but one day, in a newspaper Sunday supplement, they ran across a story about European children who needed American homes.

Picked Tommy

They wrote to the Displaced Persons commission, a branch of the U. S. State department that handles foreign adoptions. European representatives of the commission picked a child in Germany whom they thought the Cheskeys would like.

It was a good choice as far as Mr. and Mrs. Cheskey are concerned. Now, after more than a year of dealing with local, national and German bureaus, they finally have the son that they wanted.

"Everyone says that Tommy is so lucky to have an American home," says Mrs. Cheskey, "but I think that we are the lucky ones."

seven acres near Alemany and Skyline.

Total cost for the 10 acres is pegged at $58,000, of which the school district has paid $10,000.

Funds Lacking

No funds are immediately available for the proposed new Westlake schools.

Initial steps in resurfacing and developing the Crocker school playgrounds were also discussed and Ciampi was ordered to draw up plans for improving the site. At the same time $3,500 was deposited in the account of Sara Eaves for the purchase of two lots adjoining the school which will be employed in the development project.

Other business before the board Thursday night included:

Red Route

1. Setting July 10 for a hearing on dedication of the "red route" . . . a road to lead from 87th street to Westlake. In getting the "red route," the county has agreed to abandon White street which runs through property the board plans to use for construction of the new upper Garden Village school. Only possible objection to the "red route" may come from residents on 87th street, for the road now ends at the back of two homes which probably will have to be removed once the new street is dedicated.

Request Out

2. Miss Armantrout's request to attend an Art Conference in Long Beach was read. The trustees expressed appreciation for her interest, but it was felt sufficient opportunity for conferences in the field of art exist in the Bay Area and the expense of sending her could not be justified. However, the trustees felt this conference to be of value to another teacher, Mrs. Bostwick. The trustees approved her attending the conference.

At a special Monday meeting the trustees also approved a trip to Long Beach in October for Mrs. Helen Cheatham, trustee. She will attend the California Association of School Trustees meeting.

3. Ciampi reported the Westlake site improvement plans was going according to schedule and should be completed by the middle of August. He also predicted the Garden Village school will be finished by the end of the year.

4. Harry Bosbery, spokesman for the Westlake PTA, asked the board's permission to plant grass on the Westlake site, and care for the grass until the first cutting. Then the school district would be expected to maintain the grounds.

Bosbery was asked to what extent the adults expected to use the grounds. He said this was left to the descretion of the board. Mrs. Cheatham asked that Bosbery submit a plan to the board in writing, stating what they intend to do, what kind of grass they will plant and what they expect of the district and then list a policy on the use of the grounds. Bosbery said he will convey this message to his group.

through his quarry. Smith had demanded close to $200,000.

Now that the payment has been decided—a decision Smith has waged a running battle against for close to two years—the city is virtually certain to complete the extension job.

Legal Tangle

Another bit of legal tangle envolving trespassing by the Bracato Paving Company, contractors for the job, also has been straightened out, Frank Blum, city attorney, reported today.

The extension of Brunswick street to Hillside boulevard has been termed necessary by the city fathers as a measure to take pressure off traffic on Mission street.

Smith, however, asserts the whole thing was done in "spite" to "ruin" his quarry property. He says the cut greatly diminishes his chance to construct a modern motel on the corner of Hillside boulevard and Mission.

No completion date has been set for the extension, although it should be finished by early fall.

1,307 of the 3,639 riders per week. On this figure may stand or fall the plans for a bus line. Just how often these occasional riders would use the bus may make the difference between running in the red or black.

Evening Service

3. Some 30 per cent of the riders indicated they would use evening transportation.

In addition to the Westlake bus service, the council will ask for better municipal bus service on Mission street and other sections of Daly City.

City Administrator Dan Andersen said no representative of Broadmoor would be invited to the initial talk, but if need for future discussions concerning the Broadmoor shuttle bus were in order, Broadmoor representatives would be contacted.

cost survey before any definite action is taken.

There is approximately $6,000 left from the $101,000 parks bond issue which might be spent for the lights, Andersen said.

There seems to be some disagreement as to cost of such an improvement. The Recreation Commission has pegged the figure at $2,500 while Andersen says he believes the minimum cost to be $5,000, with the average standing at about $16,000.

Andersen will make this report later this month and a definite answer on the lights is expected then.

More Business

Other business conducted by the council included:

1. Appointment of Mrs. Beatrice Thimis, as of July 8, to permanent clerk in the water department.

2. The setting of July 28 as the date for a hearing on zoning a parcel of land on the southwest corner of Alemany and Skyline from unclassified to C-1.

WESTLAKE SIDEWALK JOB NOW UNDERWAY

Work was underway this week on a sidewalk to connect Westlake with Junipero Serra boulevard.

Final arrangements for payment of the job were made last week at a meeting between City Administrator Dan Andersen and Henry Doelger Co. officials.

The walk, to cost $464, will be jointly financed by the city, Doelger and the Westlake Improvement Association.

A red rock path about 800 feet long, the walk will lead from Junipero Serra boulevard into the east end of North Mayfair drive.

Top-Of-The-Hill Still Needs Cleaning

On a bright sunny day, when you seem to be looking at everything with technicolor vision, a brief stroll at the Top of the Hill is all it takes to bring everything back into black and white. The place is still the dirtiest part of Daly City.

It seems essentially ridiculous that city officials should allow our central business section to remain a litter of windblown trash, a catchplace for the effluvium of a metropolitan district.

Local businessmen know that the current state of affairs is bad for business. No customer likes to do his buying in an area where every kind of trash imaginable litters the streets and sidewalks, where a gray litter of dirt lies over all.

With the unprecedented growth of Daly City in the last few years, a number of clean, attractive shopping centers have sprung up in the surrounding area. They draw an increasingly large number of people who formerly traded with merchants on the Top of the Hill. Undoubtedly these centers have in their own neighborhoods sufficient trade to allow them to operate comfortably.

With such the case, there is no conceivable excuse for the focal point of the city to remain in such condition that people will shortly be interested in passing through it as quickly as possible.

What is needed is a lot of soap, elbow grease and paint. It must start with the city, of course, as all civic projects must. Merchants can hardly be expected to maintain a mansion in the midst of a dump.

It shouldn't require much money. Just a little action from the powers that be. Or is that asking too much?

A Bouquet To The Fire Department

Daly City's fire department is not a large one, but what it lacks in size is more than compensated for in speed and efficiency—when it counts.

Watching Chief Elmer Kennedy and his men around the station house gives the same impression as watching any firemen anywhere: "What a soft life those guys live!"

But when the alarm starts ringing and seconds make the difference between much damage or little damage—between whether a human being lives or dies—then the men who lead such a "soft life" prove their worth many times over.

We had the oportunity recently to watch how a small and relatively inconsequential fire was prevented from becoming a major one. Driving past Westlake, we saw smoke coming from a few blocks over, and simultaneously heard sirens. We swung over to the scene of the fire just as a truck from the Daly City Fire department arrived.

The truck jerked to a stop and firemen erupted out of it like so many jacks-in-the-box. It was a matter of seconds before men with axes were on the roof—where the fire was spreading rapidly—and hoses were rigged and spraying.

A few minutes later the blaze was out and the building, an uncompleted one, was only slightly damaged.

This sort of thing goes on constantly with the Daly City firemen. In doing it, they ask only a little cooperation from the residents of the area. They're always willing to inspect a home on request for possible danger spots. The idea, of course, being that it's easier to put out a fire before it starts.

All in all it's a pretty good deal for the householder. He can get just about all the service he asks for to prevent a fire in his home and, if one does happen, he knows that well-organized, well-trained men will do their best to douse it quickly.

Add to this the many community projects sponsored by the fire department and it seems that there is quite a bit which we can appreciate.

The Transportation Blues

A survey of transportation needs in Westlake recently completed by the Westlake Improvement Association, convinces us the time is long overdue for at least a shuttle service to that area.

The city council and residents of Westlake appear to be in complete agreement with this conclusion; but it is going to be another matter to convince San Francisco municipal bus officials of this need. Faced with losses which recently jumped the fare to 15c, San Francisco muni operators are going to have to be sold on extending service beyond the home territory into Daly City.

San Francisco hardly can be blamed for an unwillingness to risk financial loss on her transportation. On the other hand, the firm argument for Daly City is that easy access to the "big city" from here spells out prosperity for San Francisco merchants.

The transportation survey indicates there are enough residents interested in busses to make the deal pay off. Next step is up to the council to convince San Francisco.

Should all this fail, we stick by our original assertion that a privately owned bus line would be the best deal for this area. Sooner or later such a line is going to be a necessity, and we think the sooner the better.

Floodlights Needed At Marchbanks

Floodlights for Marchbanks park long have been overdue and it is with a great deal of pleasure we see they are now being considered by the city council.

The lights, under consideration for the past two years, will open up a new vista of recreation in Daly City, allowing night baseball and other forms of play now ruled out by darkness.

Estimated cost of the lights vary, but unless they are completely beyond limits of the city budget, we submit the cost should be secondary to the enjoyment they will bring thousands of children and adults alike.

It is to be hoped the council will reach a speedy decision on this matter, and not drag it over into next year's business.

Meanwhile, the Recreation Commission is to be thanked for at least bringing this important matter to a head.

Faith And The Fourth

The Fourth of July was not a holiday in 1776. It was not an occasion for picnics and parades. It just happened to be the date on which the Continental Congress formally and irrevocably launched the 13 Colonies into the grim business of fighting for their freedom.

The prospects of success were not the brightest. Nor was the outlook for the individual signers of the Declaration of Independence a happy one. Most of them owned considerable property which they stood to lose. Then there was also the matter of their own lives. They stood to lose them too, for rebellion against the Crown.

But the men in Philadelphia, and in fact, all who were fighting for the independence of the Colonies, were motivated by something higher than their own personal considerations. They were moved by faith—faith in the justice of their cause, faith in its ultimate success. Without faith they would never have triumphed. Indeed, without it, they would never have tried.

Faith was their not-so-secret weapon. It made up for the deficiencies in military strength. It spurred them on when the struggle seemed hopeless.

The faith of those Revolutionary times is needed today. Our real strength is not in manpower or mechanical horsepower, nor is it derived from our mines and mills and rich agricultural fields. Our only real power is born of the simple things—justice, decency, courage, and above all, faith in the right.

However essential physical things may seem to be it is moral might that wins the victory. Let us then re-arm ourselves not merely with guns and planes but with the things of the Spirit—the faith of our Forefathers.

The Yucca Flat "Incident" And Civil Defense

By implication, the atomic bomb tests on Yucca Flat in Nevada were supposed to say something to the people of the United Sttaes about Civil Defense. State and municipal directors of Civil Defense who were present expressed apprhension concerning the extent of unpreparedness. The Federal Civil Defense Administrator, Millard Caldwell, was on hand to tell Americans how far ahead of them Europeans have gone in the art of self-protection.

England has 150,000 in a permanent Civil Defense Corps, which is training 500,000 additional volunteers. Norway, Sweden and Denmark all provide by law for conscription of civilians for Civil Defense, but volunteers have come forward in such numbers that conscription has not been resorted to.

Norway is constructing shelters in every town of 10,000 population, requires shelters in all factories employing 50 workers or more and in all new construction. Sweden, with a population of 7,000,000 has 900,000 enrolled in Civil Defense and has shelters for more than 1,000,000, many of them tunneled into the rock of hills. Denmark has nearly 5,000 public shelters.

By comparison, the United States has 2,000,000 citizens enlisted in Civil Defense work, no adequate system of shelters has been established anywhere, warning systems are rather well devloped in most kep spots, and few large cities have practiced the partial evacuation they would have to carry out in event of atomic war—some have not even made any plans for it.

The people of European countries do not believe Civil Defense is something they can gamble on not needing. Too many Americans wishfully think it is, and that is the principal reason why the guard is let down so far, so long in so many communities.

Westlake Association Official Claims Few Conversations About "Divorce"

June 30, 1952

The Record, Editor
Gentlemen:

Your editorial in the June 26th issue of The Record, titled "Conversational Piece on Westlake," in my opinion, calls for a rebuttal.

It probably is true that there is some scuttlebutt floating over backyard fences suggesting that Westlake should divorce itself from Daly City, but such conversations are very few.

There was a time when we in Westlake, knowing little about our city or its administration, felt very much like orphans; but now, with representation on the City Council and the various commissions, there is bound to be closer cooperation between all sections of our city. We have so many problems in common.

As we grow and take a greater interest in civic affairs you will, I am sure, find us good citizens, willing and anxious to work for a better Daly City.

Yours very truly,
GEO. S. PINGRY

Reader Wants Elementary Schools Named After District Trustees

The Record, Editor
Dear Sir:

Last week I attended the Jefferson Elementary School Trustee meeting and at that meeting considerable confusion existed regarding new schools because proposed sites had not been given a name.

I do not care for the practice of naming schools after districts, such as Garden Village, Garden Village Upper Grade, Westlake 1, 2, etc.

I do not know the exact procedure for naming schools but would like to have your support in getting existing schools or schools in the planning stage named after our present trustees. Although I do not always agree with these three very fine people (and I am sure they wouldn't want me to) I do feel some recognition is due them for the work they have done and will do in the future for our district. They have given many hours of their life to building up this School District and I believe the public would like to have their name live on in the district after they have finished their work.

There is a pressing need for school names at the present time and I am sure the trustees would not of their on volition name schools after themselves, therefore I have directed this letter to you in the hope that through your paper you can bring this about.

Respectfully,
Howard L. Richardson

County Property Taxes Doubled Since War Years

Over $20,000,000 Is Taken From Property Owners Last Year

Tax levy on property in San Mateo county averaged $77.60 per $1,000 of assessed valuation for 1951-52, compared with $36.46 for 1942-43, California Taxpayers' association reported today.

Total levy on property in the county — for the county, cities, school districts, and special districts—reached $20,159,148 for 1951-52, compared with $4,825,075 for 1952-43.

County Property

Assessed value of taxable property in the county was $259,770,004 for 1951-52, compared with $132,353,035 for 1952-43.

Statewide, the average tax levy on property for each $1,000 of assessed value was $57.92 for 1951-52, compared with $41.25 for 1942-43, the association found.

Property taxes levied in California for 1951-52 reached $853,592,808 compared with $316,817,925 for 1942-43.

Value of property was assessed at $14,736,551,896 for 1951-52, compared with $7,679,695,379 for 1942-43.

"The property tax bill is going up a good deal faster than the valuation of property against which it is levied," the taxpayers' association said, pointing out that the average levy per $1,000 of valuation statewide for 1951-52—$57.92—is 40 per cent greater than the $41.25 average levy per $1,000 for 1952-43.

One of Many

"Property taxes are only one of the many taxes people must pay.

"Next year's tax bill—the bill property owners get this coming November—depends on the size of the budgets the local governments adopt during the summer months.

"The local governments include the county, cities, school districts, and special districts.

"If property owners want lower taxes in November—now is the time to see that local government budgets are held in check," the association declared.

CALIFORNIA SPEAKS

Significant Statements by Interesting Californians

JOSEPH BRANNAN, L. A. merchant—"More kids are registered in Sunday schools than parents in churches. Must mean Dad is glad to drive Junior to Sunday School if it's on the way to the golf course."

RED SKELTON, Hollywood comedian — "I'm skeptical about hospitals after what happened to my mother in one. Me!"

HERB CAEN, S. F. columnist—"I'm told the word 'idiot' derives from the ancient Greek 'Itiotes,' meaning people who don't hold public office. How times have changed!"

DR. FRANCES E. TOWNSEND, Long Beach — "The Townsend Plan has a more powerful appeal to people than even religion, which is divided into sects."

HUMPHEY BOGART, screen star—"Really fine character actors are so good that people remember the character and forget the actor. That's why good actors die broke."

Handcuffs Bring Two Palo Altans Together

A Palo Alto bartender and a cocktail waitress were very close to each other Saturday—so close it took two county sheriff's deputies to separate them.

Seems that Chuck Anderson, the bartender, dropped into Buddie's Cafe after work. So did an unidentified cocktail waitress from a nearby bar.

On her way into Buddie's, she found a pair of "toy" handcuffs on the sidewalk outside. She slipped one of the cuffs on and asked if anyone would like to try the other for size.

Anderson took up the challenge, and amidst great merriment, locked the other cuff on his own wrist. Then they found that the cuffs weren't toys.

It took two deputies from the sheriff's office to pick the cuffs and end the pair's very close relationship.

Bill Katz . . . FROM A CORNER

It's hard to put your finger on it, for death is as elusive as the timeless waters rushing back and forth across the beach where the dying man now lies gasping for breath which never seems to come. Somewhere back of the hill the brilliant sun highlights two teenagers listlessly throwing a baseball back and forth, back and forth.

This man who is dying is an ordinary human being who this Tuesday afternoon went out fishing and ended up on a one-way journey with death. He managed to shoot himself, and for that reason he is carefully lifted out of the timeless statistics to make a brief place for himself on the front page of this, and other newspapers.

Statistics

Standing around him, a few feet from the car where he fired the gun, are more ordinary human beings. Their faces show a morbid curiosity with a tinge of horror and what they evidently feel is the proper amount of respect for the dying. It is difficult to say what they feel, for their words are as inarticulate and meaningless as the dying sobs of the one man who wrestles to lose with death.

Then the man dies. The ambulance comes, the small crowd separates, and the body is taken away.

Some latecomers, dressed in flashy bathing suits and a calculated hardened air ask what has happened. One of the onlookers makes a bad joke, but no one laughs.

Nothing

There is nothing left of the dead man now but his car and two fishing poles projecting from the back seat. The handles of the poles are cold and coated with spots of blood. On the ground where the man has died is a dirty newspaper, a matted up old magazine and more blood.

The little crowd of onlookers begins to break up. A tall, suntanned, tow-headed youth lopes over to a car parked a few feet from the bloody sand, opens the door, reaches in and pulls out a sandwich. He bites into it and walks contentedly back to the water.

Change

Two other teen-agers and a young girl banty words back and forth as they ease out of another machine. Still another older man gets into his car and leaves, swearing softly at the ruts in the road.

Nothing has changed the timeless serenity of the water, beach and blue sky. One more man walks no more on those sands to go fishing, but that is all that is different. His life and his death appear now even less significant than the shifting sands.

It's hard to put your finger on it, to bring forth the feelings another man should have for his fellow when he is violently killed. And with alarm you realize there is nothing at all to feel, no emotion whatsoever other than a desire to get out of the hot sun and get a cold drink of refreshing water.

Multiply this death by the thousands coughing up their lives in the hills of Korea, the millions dying for want of a single crust of bread and the hundreds suddenly snuffed out on the highways and there is nothing to feel at all except a great loneliness, a sense of singular unimportance in a world of statistics emphasized daily by casualty lists from this beach, and the vast lands which stretch beyond this bit of land, and the ocean.

It's hard to put your finger on death, and perhaps it is as well, for to fully understand the newspapers lying at your feet covered with blood is to invite insanity.

And back in the hills the two boys stop throwing the ball and disappear into the timeless wastes of the silent jungle filled with millions of people who must remain as nothing, as impersonal, as unimportant as the sand which slowly laps up the dying man's blood.

Keith Gardner . . . OFF THE RECORD

What I mean is, we're tradition bound. For years everyone has voted either Republican or Democrat and the habit has become practically second nature. Yet most people recognize that the trouble with Ike, Bob, Estes, Adlai and the rest of the boys is that they're too big-time.

All these estimable men talk about is foreign policy, parity prices and the big, nebulous topics that we in the grass roots neighborhood haven't time to study adequately. We need a man with that uncommon, common touch.

No Taxes

Now what would you say to a presidential candidate who promised to knock off all income tax for families making under $6000 a year. If Ike said something like that, the voters would stampede to the polls like adolescents to a Marilyn Monroe movie.

The sad part of it is that there really is such a presidential candidate. His name is Krajewski and he is a pig farmer and candidate of the Poor Man's Party. A pig farmer, you say—whoever heard of a president who is a pig farmer. Who indeed; whoever heard of a haberdasher in the White House for that matter.

We've had some pretty odd-ball presidents in the past, and at very least, Mr. Krajewski couldn't be worse than some. When you've hit rock bottom there's no place to go but up.

Healthy Too

Nor is he likely to die in office and leave some cretin of a vice-president to take over. Mr. Krajewski is a good, healthy 40 years old, and his running mate is a printer from New Jersey. Printers being sound men all in all.

Another highly valid organization is the Greenback party. They are represented by a Mr. Proehl of Seattle, Wash. The Greenbackers say that when the government wants more money, it should print it instead of fooling around with heavier taxes and bond sales and stuff like that.

Anyone with a modicum of intelligence can see that these two unknown parties have something on the ball. But we go right along yakking about Democrats and Republicans as if they were the only choice open to us. I tell you, we can't see the woods for the trees.

Also Running

Of course not all small parties have such laudable platforms. The Prohibitionists are against drink, the Vegetarians against meat. Such irrationalities are no way to win my vote, nor that of the average citizen.

The Socialists, of course, are still with us. But good ole Norm Thomas, the party's candidate since 1924, has given up the fight. If Norm—beyond doubt a man of great perseverance—doesn't think the game is worth it, the rest of us had better give up hope too.

Lastly there is the Socialist Workers, a group who follow the tenets of the late Leon Trotzky, who lost out to Stalin in the struggle for Soviet power after Lenin died, and ended up dead in Mexico with a Stalinist pick-axe buried in his skull.

Thumbs Down

As much as one may admire Mr. Trotzky's intellectual powers (try his "History of the Russian Revolution" some time—a little biased but very interesting in the light of subsequent developments), it must be admitted that Russia was little better off in the days when he was a big-wheel commie than it is now.

Which leaves us with the Poor Men and the Greenbackers. That is, unless you want to vote for George Jefferson Lincoln Gardner, a man of too many sterling qualities to enumerate here. Remember the slogan, friends; a vote for Gardner is a vote.

Ridgely Cummings . . . HOLLYWOOD

"The good is the greatest enemy of the best."

That is a provocative quote I picked up from the Vedanta Society of Southern California.

This Vedanta movement is quite the rage down here among the literati and since I fondly consider myself a literary man I naturally had to investivate it.

I think that what attracted me to it is that fundamentally and in spite of knowing better, at heart I'm something of a snob. So when I learned that Aldous Huxley and Christopher Isherwood, two of the best writers on the modern scene, not only are members of the Vedanta Society but are on the editorial board of the Society's magazine, I had to find out more about it.

If it was good enough for Huxley and Isherwood then perhaps there might be something to it.

As I write this I am an expert who has attended two meetings. The disciples and novices meet on Sunday mornings at 11 o'clock in a quiet temple with globular knobs on top, set back in a beautifully landscaped garden. The temple is situated on Ivar street in Hollywood, on a hill overlooking the brown debris of an area torn up for the construction of a freeway.

Visitors

On both visits I have been the guest of friends who have literary pretensions but who are as yet completely unknown. Both times they apologized because Huxley, Isherwood and John Van Druten, a playwright, did not happen to be present.

When they mentioned John Van Druten I felt a twinge of recognition for recently I was assigned to review a play of his at the Pasadena Playhouse and panned it with cruel unction. The play was called "Old Acquaintance" and I wrote that it was unsubstantial, consisting of flippant conversation about the New York publishing world and the trials of impending middle age for lonely females.

So it was just as well I didn't meet Mr. Van Druten, though I hear his "I Am A Camera" in NYC is much better. As for Messers Huxley and Isherwood, I could face them unperturbed since I have yet to speak ill of them and in fact think highly of "Brave New World," "After Many a Summer Dies the Swan," "Eyeless In Gaza," and Isherwood's "Prater Violet."

Snobbish Apparent

Anyway they weren't there, nor did I meet any other big names, which disappointed my snobbish soul.

At the first meeting the Swami Prabhavananda spoke on the psychology of Yoga. The Swami was a short man, white-haired and mahogany-skinned, who wore a voluminous peach-colored robe. He started out by mumbling some sort of incantation in a bass voice into the microphone. It was soothing but to me incomprehensible, consisting of noises that sounded like: "Rruummpah, grruumpah, drrummpah, etta-kanda-nanda."

Then he started his thesis, using Hindu terminology, and spent the following hour translating it into a mixture of orthodox Freudian psycho-analytic terms and mystical, religious concepts.

I was not favorably impressed. Nor did the music that followed do anything to convert me—three young women and three young men harmonizing to a portable organ, crooning something about "Krishna, we want to come home to thee."

Expected Reaction

My literary friends remained hopeful even after, under questioning, I gave them an honest reaction.

"The Swami has his special following and perhaps you're not advanced enough to appreciate him," they said. "Come with us next week to hear Gerald Heard. He's wonderful."

"So the following week I went to hear Gerald Heard talk about the fire of life. Sixty-two years old but looking young and vigorous in his English tweeds, Heard was indeed an accomplished speaker, with a facile mind and an extraordinarily precise vocabulary.

He talked about the summer solstice, Easter, Christmas and Thanksgiving. Several of his points I recognized as coming from Frazer's wonderful book, "The Golden Bough," which ties up pagan nature rites with religion.

He made one point that pleased me, namely that today, instead of enjoying the noontide of life, the summer fire, we think too much about quitting time, the autumnal period of retirement.

Instead of living to the full during our productive years, too many of us talk about keeping our nose to the grindstone, a horrid metaphor, until our annuities are paid up and wer are eligible for social security.

Mighty Rough

That is just a rough paraphrase and the business about quitting time and social security is my own. Heard's terminology was more florid. He used expressions like tangential anastomosis, which, I learned from my dictionary after I got home, means something like accidental joining. He used another word which isn't in my dictionary but which is the opposite of Aristotle's katharsis, purifying through the release of emotion.

That was when he was knocking Aristotle. He didn't think too highly of the old Greek anyway, claiming that the great advocate of scientific method had been a stultifying influence on western thought. Plato he thought was much better and it was at this point he got off the quote about the good being the enemy of the best.

I liked the quote but disagreed with the interpretation. If it comes to a choice between Aristotle and Plato, I'll take Aristotelian logic and let Heard keep Platonic love.

However, I found Heard stimulating, and will probably go back for another sermon. So you can expect a further report on Vedanta in this space sometime in the near future. But, confirmed skeptic that I am, I doubt very much that I'll take to wearing peach-colored robes.

DRUIDS CELEBRATE 51st ANNIVERSARY

Members and guests of Cypress Circle No. 14, UAOD, gathered at the St. Moritz restaurant in San Francisco Tuesday, June 24, for a dinner celebrating the organization's fifty-first anniversary.

Twenty-five members and a number of guests were present for the occasion. Mrs. Helen Holcomb and Mrs. Tennie Jensen were in charge of arrangements and table decorations.

Under their supervision, fifty-one pansy corsages—each representing a year of the organization's past—decorated the table.

Three officers of the circle, Mrs. Janet Fellman, deputy; Mrs. Marion Fellman, arch-druidess; and Mrs. Holcomb, treasurer, were presented with orchids raised by Mrs. Jensen's husband.

Con Man Gyps Four Local Boy Scouts

An all-time depth in the con man's art was reached Saturday in San Francisco when four Daly City Boy Scouts were taken for $48.02, a supposed contribution to the cerebral palsy fund.

Standing in line with the money they had collected for the cerebral palsy telethon at the San Francisco War Memorial building, the four scouts were accosted by a tall, blond man who offered to get them on the television program.

The con man bought the boys ice cream and, claiming to be a well-known movie star, accepted their money for the campaign.

He then signed autographs for the scouts and gave them a pencil-written pass to a movie house nearby before he disappeared, promising to make arrangements to get them on the TV program.

DALY CITY PILOT GETS OAK LEAF CLUSTERS

WITH THE 25TH INFANTRY DIV. IN KOREA—Capt. James H. Nelson, 130 Belmar avenue, Daly City has been awarded his first and second Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal for meritorious achievement in Korea while flying for the 25th Infantry Division.

A member of Headquarters Battery, 64th Field Artillery Battalion, he received the awards for his performance of duty between March 20 and April 23, and from April 24 to May 22, 1952. Oak Leaf Clusters are awarded in lieu of duplicate medals.

The light air section of the division flies reconnaissance and artillery spotting missions and delivers urgent messages to lower and higher commands.

DALY CITY DRAFT QUOTA WILL BE SET IN SEPTEMBER

An undetermined number of Daly City's young men can look forward to a call from Uncle Sam in September.

San Mateo county draft boards 57 and 58 will call up 62 men. How this will be broken down as to communities (board 57 serves Daly City) has not been announced.

California draft headquarters at Sacramento estimate of the 30,000 nation-wide call up in September, 2,000 men will come from California.

State quotas for October, November and December may jump to 4,000 a month.

The Veterans Administration is spending $52,374,000 annually for overstaffing in administrative work, and keeping employees not justified by the workload, according to testimony by the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report before a House committee.

Budget Director Lawton has estimated that the number of employees on the Federal payroll will increase to 2,700,000 by the end of 1952 or early 1953, as compared with 2,537,000 as of last February.

Next Wednesday, July 9, a mid-week prayer and praise service is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Local Man Returns Aboard Carrier

The first aircraft carrier to launch air attacks against the North Koreans becomes the first carrier to complete three Korean tours. On her second anniversary of combat, July 3rd, the USS Valley Forge docks at the Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif.

A member of the ship's company is Arthur R. Moore, commissaryman, third class, USN, 41 Alexander avenue.

Two years ago to the day, July 3, 1950, the "Happy Valley" appeared on the combat line off Korea, the only carrier in the area, with Carrier Air Group 5 aboard. What had started out as a peacetime cruise, became war.

That day Naval aviation history was made. When the F9F "Panther" jets took off from the flight deck to streak across enemy skies, it marked the Navy jets first appearance in combat.

December 1, 1950, the carrier returned to San Diego for a rest. But, once again, plans were disrupted when the Chinese communist push began. Five days after her arrival, the Valley Forge was steaming toward the Far East on her second cruise.

The carrier returned to San Diego April 7, 1951, and remained Stateside qualifying pilots in carrier operations. Then October 15, 1951, with the planes of Air Task Group One aboard, she returned to the combat area for her third Korean stint.

In all, the carrier has spent 14 of the past 24 months in Korean action. During the three cruises, many combat records were established by the ship and her air groups.

March 7, 1952, with Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball, observing, ATG-1 planes made 144 rail cuts . . . a new record for a single carrier. The unit later teamed with pilots of the carrier USS Antietam for 216 rail cuts in a single day, marking a new Task Force 77 record.

During her three tours, the Valley launched 11,606 combat sorties . . . 11,606 times that her jets, corsairs, and Skyraider attack bombers struck at enemy installations. ATG-1 pilots rained destruction on the enemy on 6,246 strikes.

Little Girl Lost—Police To The Rescue

Carol Fendrick, age 5, of Bakersfield, California, was visiting Monday morning with her mother at 284 Ellington street in San Francisco.

Carol took a little stroll down to the store, but got a little confused on the way home and wandered off in the wrong direction.

Sgt. August Benassini of the Daly City police found her in Daly City going south on Mission street.

He contacted a San Francisco police car that was cruising the neighborhood with Mrs. Fendrick, anxiously searching for the girl.

Moral: little girls in big cities should carry a compass.

The fact that nearly $500,000,000 of the world's $840,000,000 gold production in 1951 went into private hoards is evidence that the time is ripe for a return to the gold standard, The Wall Street Journal declares.

"HERE WE HOPE TO BUILD THE NEW WESTLAKE Community Baptist Church," Rev. Roy L. Milam (center) tells City Administrator Dan Andersen, left, and Works Superintendent A. J. Bodien. Rev. Milam is now working out plans for the large site in Westlake and hopes to have a new church up some time this fall. Meanwhile, his congregation meet in the Abbey Chapel in Mt. Olivet Memorial Park.

Horatio Alger Success Formula Is Hewed To In Local Drug Stores

Horatio Alger would have found a rich field of material in Daly City for his stories of youthful success. Particularly in the drug store business.

At any rate, three young men presently employed by Lee's Pharmacy, 6389 Mission, and McGraw Bros. Drug Store, 6300 Mission, are prime examples of the classic Alger success story.

Jack and Ronald Palm work for McGraw's pharmacy. Jack, who started there as a stock boy and general helper when he reached the ripe old age of 11 years, is a graduate of the University of California.

Working as a stock boy at McGraws, he found that the life of a druggist appealed to him, and went to US to study pharmacology. Now he's back at his old place of employment—but definitely not as a stock boy.

Jack's brother, Ronald Palm, started at the drug store the same way. Now 18 years old, he is going to college and working part time at the pharmacy to help finance his college education.

Across the street at Lee's drug store exists another situation straight out of an Alger tale. Steve Hansen seems to be following the same trail that Jack Palm took years ago. Steve is just 11 years old at this time, and he has been an employee of Lee's for the past three weeks.

Jayne Duncan, favorite saleslady of many of Lee's customers, reports that "Steve is doing a fine job. But even if he made a mistake it wouldn't matter too much.

"Lee always takes the possibility of error into consideration. He feels that everyone has to learn—and how can a boy learn unless someone gives him a break?"

To Be Alive On The Fifth -- Take It Easy On The Fourth

If you are to be among the 90,000,000 Americans who will take to the highways on the Fourth, make it a holiday, not a hollow day.

According to figures compiled by San Francisco chapter of the National Safety council, it is estimated 40,000,000 passenger vehicles will travel 5,000,000,000 miles on U. S. streets and highways during the three-day weekend—enough to circle the world 200,000 times!

More Accidents

The figures are offered to emphasize the tremendouse amount of travel expected and to warn that it inevitably must mean more accidents — unless the motoring public uses more caution than usual, the council said.

With a new, unhappy record of 360 lives lost in traffic alone during the Memorial Day three-day holiday, an ominous note has been sounded already and the council is conducting again a nationwide campaign for a safe Independence Day celebration in an effort to prevent holiday tragedy for hundreds of persons.

Many national and local organizations, government officials, police departments and local safety councils are cooperating.

Here, Philip Johnson, president of San Francisco Chapter of the council, appealed to every citizen to do his part in preventing traffic tragedy over the Fourth.

Safety Rules

"Many tragedies result from things we can control—haste, selfishness, thoughtlessness, the desire to show off," Johnson said. "Take it easy on the Fourth—be alive on the Fifth. Observe the following rules:

1. Be sure your car is in safe mechanical condition.
2. Don't hurry on the road; start earlier.
3. Pass other cars only if there's plenty of room.
4. Don't drive after drinking—even a little.
5. Stop, rest, whenever overtired or sleepy.

SHOCK ABSORBERS

Shock absorbers on your car should be checked for defects at regular intervals. Leaking fluid is one of the first signs of trouble, reports the California State Automobile Association. Neglected shock absorbers contribute to accidents by causing a car to shimmy at high speed, thus causing steering difficulties.

Congress has provided for foreign aid in the 12 years since 1940 a total of $89,252,000,000 — a sum equal to the total value of all residential construction in the country in the 25 years from 1927 through 1951.

Ballet Russe Opens At Curran Monday, July 21st

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo is coming to the West Coast to start its 15th consecutive season, and performances will be presented for two weeks at the Curran Theatre, opening on Monday evening, July 21st. Performances will be given every night including Sunday at the Curran, with matinees on Saturday only.

The Ballet Ruse de Monte Carlo through the years has come to represent the taste of the American ballet audience. In the days of the Czars in Russia when royalty had unlimited time and means, ballet was brought to a high point with collaboration between artists, composers and dancers. Many of the greatest composers' works were written specifically for ballets.

Full evening performances of one single ballet were commonplace. When ballet baceme popular in the U. S. it was found that American taste preferred a performance made up of divertissements or several ballets with intermissions between. This has become regular procedure now. Usually, only one of two acts of long ballets are performed. Often, short variations of great charm are taken from long ballets and set like jewels between longer ballets on a program.

The Ballet Russe has a large repertoire of classic and modern ballets danced by the finest dancers in the world today. A completely American company, with a tradition of 15 years of touring the U. S., the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo has become the most loved and popular of all ballets.

The appearance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo at the Curran will mark the only apparance of the famous organization in northern California this season.

The large company is headed by Leaon Danielian, Nina Novak, Oleg Tupine, Gertrude Tyven and Yvonne Chouteau with a full orchestra.

PARKING COURTESY

Parking meters are used to help motorists share the curb and make more space for others to park. Abuse of the curb-parking privilege leads to traffic congestion because it forces cars to cruise the streets looking for parking space. The California State Automobile Association urges you to play fair—don't overpark at the meter.

San Francisco's Stockton street tunnel bores 911 feet through Nob Hill to connect the downtown area with Chinatown.

Report Oil Blasts Don't Kill Fish

With the aid of three deep sea divers, a party representing the Department of Fish and Game, sportsmen, commercial fishermen, county supervisors and the press has decided that black powder charges used in the underwater search of oil deposits off the California coast have no harmful effects on fishlife.

The conclusion was the result of a recent two-day series of experimental seismic blasts in the Pacific ocean near San Luis Obispo.

Independent underwater observations were made from diving suits by a state marine biologist, a commercial abalone fisherman and an oil company employee.

Test Blasts

The observation parties were taken by boats to the test areas, where charges were set off by the Western Geophysical company. Typical seismic shots exploded in various water depths failed to produce evidence of fish deaths above or below the water surface.

Marine Biologist Keith W. Cox of the Department of Fish and Game, represented the state agency.

He reported that all divers agreed that black powder charges detonated six feet below the water surface in depths of 50 feet or more "have no harmful effects on fish or other invertebrates in the immediate vicinity."

Charge Fish Kill

The unique experiment was conducted at the request of fishermen, who have contended that "floating" blasts kill fish which never surface. Standard powder charges, required under the latest Fish and Game commission regulations, were used.

Divers descended to the ocean floor before and after the explosions. In simultaneous underwater trips averaging 20 minutes for each diver, no blast effects were noted on rockfish, priestfish, flatfish, sea cucumbers, sea anemones, tube worms, corals, sea urchins, clams or starfish.

Further explorations on the possible harmful effects of seismic blasts will be conducted in San Luis Obispo Bay until mid-July, Cox stated.

Record High Traffic Expected Over The Holidays

The California Highway Patrol is readying its own supply of Fourth of July fireworks this week, but instead of Roman candles and pinwheels, they're the red warning flares used at the scenes of accidents.

Traffic volume is expected to reach a record high over the coming holiday weekend and Patrol officials said unless motorists go all out for safety, a grim toll of deaths and injuries would be chalked up.

To keep the crowded highways free of drunk drivers and unsafe vehicles, traffic checks will be staged at strategic spots throughout the state and every available man will be on duty.

"We won't predict an exact number of deaths or injuries," said Patrol Commission Clifford E. Peterson, "but we will say definitely that if motorists want to return home safely, they'll have to drive with consideration for the dangers of holiday travel."

Patrol officers don't enjoy writing tickets, but pulling broken bodies out of shattered wrecks is even less enjoyable, he said. However, if the Fourth is a normal holiday, they'll be faced with both unpleasant jobs.

"If you're not interested in either of our services—over the Fourth or any other time—then drive carefully," Peterson advised. "Try dangerous, inconsiderate, unlawful driving today, and chances are we'll be calling an ambulance for you tomorrow."

At least one of every six dollars of personal income received by Americans last year came from government pay checks, government bond interest or government welfare payments, the National Conference Board says.

Daly City Leads County In Cases Of Chicken Pox

Chicken pox ran relatively rampant in Daly City during the month of May—leading the rest of the county—according to a report from the county public health department.

Thirty-six cases were reported in the city during that period, with measles (10), German measles (1), scarlet fever (1), and mumps (1) as runners-up.

Colma remained comparatively disease-free, with one case of chicken pox and one of mumps.

Total cases of the pox for the county totaled 309, nearly three times the number for May of 1951. The measles count for the county shrank to 17. Last year, during a veritable epidemic, there were 1,381 cases reported during the same period.

Little VD

Only three VD cases were found throughout the entire county, two in Menlo Park and one in Redwood City.

The county health department also reports that action has been taken by state officials to prevent the illegal sale of liquid silver polishes which contain sodium cyanide, a deadly poison.

The move was precipitated by the recent near-death of a Menlo Park child, who used a toothbrush which had been dipped in a household polishing solution containing sodium cyanide.

Restricted Sale

Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, state director of public health, stated that no product which contains a poison can be sold in California except by licensed pharmacists.

"Most polishes for silverware are pastes, and count on abrasive rather than chemical action to remove tarnish," he said. Dr. Halverson went on to add that anyone who already has a liquid metal polish should read the label carefully, and make sure that children cannot reach the bottle.

'Twas Indeed A Wet Year In Daly City

The foggy-foggy dew was exceptionally wet in Daly City during the past fiscal year.

This is the contention of the weather man who observes that from June 1951 to June 1952 some 32.56 inches of rain fell in Daly City. This compares with the average of 22.21 inches.

Still, this was no record. Oldtimers will recall that between 18889 and 1890 (Daly City was little but a cow pasture then) some 45 inches of rain swept through the Golden Gate to soak local residents.

Earlier in the afternoon, the cubs went on their second outing of the summer to the Langendorf baking company.

The pack's regular monthly paper drives, held the first Saturday of each month, will be temporarily discontinued due to lack of storage space and buyers for the paper. The program will begin again in September.

Residents of Broadmoor and Garden Village received thanks from the cubs for their donation of paper in the past. Income derived from the drives was used to finance the cub's summer program.

Two Daly City Men Honored At National Guard Ceremonies

At an impressive military ceremony reviewed by General Earl H. Jones, adjutant general of the state of California, two Daly City National Guardsmen received service medals.

Master Sergeant Alfonso C. Moreno of 338 Irvington street, Daly City, received the California National Guard Service Medal with one Redwood cluster for fifteen years service.

Sgt. Moreno is a member of Battery B, 149th AAA AW Bn. (SP), stationed at San Bruno Naval base, San Bruno, California.

Master Sergeant Ward A. Davis, first sergeant of the same outfit as Moreno, who lives at 719 Niantic street, Daly City, received his service medal for ten years service.

The parade and ceremony terminated the first week of summer field training at Camp Irwin, California. In the first week, the battery of which Ward and Moreno are members scored the first hit on a towed sleeve target. The second week of training will find the local Guardsmen fixing their sights on radio directed targets.

Sagehorn Supports Younger Campaign

Paving the way for unity in the Republican ranks at the national level, San Mateo county GOP congressional candidate Arthur Younger yesterday received the full backing of his primary opponent, County Treasurer Al Sagehorn.

Climaxing the hotly contested primary battle, Sagehorn has thrown his entire support to Younger. Issuing a statement Sagehorn said, "The voters have chosen Arthur Younger as their Republican congressional candidate and we must close ranks now and see that he is elected. As I stated during my campaign, it is essential that we have a change in the party control of our federal government, and to that end I urge all those who voted for me in the primaries, whether Democrat or Republican, to now work and vote for Arthur Younger in November."

This action followed the second meeting of the combined old and new County Central Committee along with representatives of the active Republican organizations throughout the county.

In acknowledging this support Younger stated, "It is most gratifying to have Al on our team for the final campaign. We have the same ideas, the same interest in wanting a change in control in Washington. Together we will carry that message to the voters of San Mateo county during the coming months. There is one benefit from the primaries that should not be overlooked—That is San Mateo county will now retain the services of its outstanding treasurer, Al Sagehorn."

Plan Improvements For Old California Dam

The California Wildlife Conservation board, in cooperation with the U. S. Forest Service, will start a $5,000 engineering study this month of the old Hume Lake dam in Fresno county, with possibilities that an additional $65,000 of state pari-mutuel funds may be allocated for necessary repairs to preserve the dam.

The 650-foot dam was built in 1908, and is believed to be the first multiple-arch dam in California. It creates an 85-acre lake which provides excellent trout fishing and other recreation facilities.

According to the U. S. Forest Service, the dam must either be repaired soon or breached and drained. Wildlife board funds for the dam survey hinge on a Forest Service agreement to drain the lake in July.

Following a survey by the Department of Fish and Game, Division of Water Resources and the Forest Service, plans and cost estimates for repair of the dam will be submitted to the board.

Plan Daly City Day For Annual County Fair And Fiesta

Local Communities To Participate On Own Day

Daly City Day at the 18th Annual San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta will be announced shortly by Jack Reese, Jr., special events director for the 1952 gala event.

Reese will slate a program involving the participation of many community groups from Daly City as well as neighboring communities and other parts of the Peninsula.

Racing

The giant fair is scheduled for presentation August 8 through 16, and will include racing (to be held at Bay Meadows), an art show, two bands, stage show presentations daily and many other special events.

Racing at Bay Meadows, beginning August 9 and continuing to the 16th, is not an integral part of the fiesta, but revenue from the races will help defray expenses, say fiesta officials, and make possible many improvements in entertainment offered.

Cost of tickets for the fair has been announced at 85 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12 years. Matinee for adults on weekdays is 50 cents per person. Youngsters five years and under will be admitted free at all times.

All out participation by San Mateo county 4-H clubs was planned recently at a meeting between county club advisors and Bill Wilson, fair manager. A 4-H club booth will be on the grounds and a 4-H day is scheduled, with a livestock show and other special events.

Art Show

The Peninsula Art Association is sponsoring an art show at the fiesta, featuring work by San Mateo county artists. The show will feature paintings, etchings, pastels, block prints and sculpture.

All county artists are eligible to enter. Entries should be sent to Box 248, Burlingame.

KEEP WHEELS IN TRUE

The experience of fleet operators of motor trucks and buses indicates many facts that could be helpful to the private car owner, points out the National Automobile Club. Many have found, for instance, that poor wheel alignment wears out more tires than underinflation.

The Heritage of Independence.

In these days of international turmoil, the significance of the Fourth will be clearer to those Americans who will pause to recall the brave Declaration of 176 years ago, from whence came the bequest of Freedoms we enjoy today.

The Permanence of Our Heritage of Independence Can be Assured
Only by Our Sincere Determination to Protect These Freedoms.

Rebekahs Meet Here For Sewing Bee

Members of Bay View Rebekah Lodge No. 317, IOOF, met yesterday, Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Signa Andrew, 89 Florentine street, Daly City, for a get-together sewing circle.

The objective of the sewing circle, reports Mrs. Marion G. Porter, was to stimulate social activities in the large and to sew useful and fancy articles for the organization's annual bazaar, to be held in the fall.

Next meeting of the lodge will be held Thursday, July 10, in the Welcome Hall Odd Fellows Temple, 26 Seventh street at 7:30 p.m. In charge will be Isabelle Sinfield, noble grand, and Eustilla Dalbey vice grand.

After the regular business meeting, the monthly whist will be held.

"The Moon Is Blue" Opens July 8 In San Francisco

The merry, outspoken and charming comedy, "The Moon Is Blue," which has exceeded all comedy hits since "The Voice of the Turtle," comes to the United Nations (formerly Alcazar) Theatre, San Francisco, for a limited engagement beginning Tuesday evening, July 8th. There will be a matinee performance Thursday afternoon, July 10th, and every Saturday afternoon during the engagement.

For the Pacific Coast production the producers have assembled an all star cast including David Niven, Diana Lynn and Scott Brady.

This tale of a naive girl, who meets a young architect on the observation tower of the Empire State Building in New York City and goes to his apartment for dinner, has been packing the Henry Miller Theatre on Broadway for the past sixteen months, and the Harris Theatre in Chicago for almost fifteen months, with no signs of a let up.

"The Moon Is Blue," in addition to critics comparisons with "The Voice of the Turtle," has also been likened to "Strictly Dishonorable." It's lines are the smart and surprising dialogue which author F. Hugh Herbert writes so hilariously. Mr. Herbert is well remembered by theatre-goers throughout th country for his sensational hit, "Kiss and Tell," from which "Meet Corliss Archer," now being produced on radio, was founded.

"The Moon Is Blue" is being presented by Richard Aldrich and Richard Myers in association with Julius Fleischmann. It was directed by Otto Preminger, noted for his screen successes in addition to his Broadway hits. The two handsome sets are by Stewart Chaney, one, the Empire State Building observation tower; the other, the architect's swank apartment.

Seats are now on sale at the United Nations Thettre box office.

ANCHONES

To light their evening rituals and processions the people of the Spanish and Indian communities of New Mexico carry great torches of cedar and pine faggots fastened to long poles, reports the National Automobile Club. These torches they call anchones.

FOURTH OF JULY DRIVING

On this coming Fourth of July weekend good drivers will pay heed to all stop signs, traffic lights, and other warning signals. These signs and signals, according to the National Automobile Club, have been placed by safety engineers to help prevent accidents. If you don't obey them, they might not prevent your accident.

Among the permanent exhibits in the exhibition hall of the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C., is a collection of flutes and viols.

SHOPPING BLOCK

News of Your Local Businesses and Business Men

By JANE KEITH

Bush league businessmen looking for "lawn mowers" at reasonable prices should be interested in the following excerpt from a letter written by my brother in Utah...

"I've found a boy, whose eagerness is far in excess of his intelligence, to cut my lawn and a beautiful arrangement has just been worked out! I have a small mustard jar filled with money ($1.60 in nickels) which I have buried in the back yard. The exact location is printed on a piece of cardboard and cut in twelve pieces like a jig-saw puzzle. Each time he cuts the lawn he gets one piece of the cardboard. Ah! If only I could find a butcher who enjoyed that kind of a game...!!"

Every year "come spring and summer" my amazement at the number of birthday party invitations received by my children renews itself—as does my search for suitable and suitably priced presents for same parties! This week I have had wonderful luck in two Broadmoor stores: KIDDIEVILLE, and the BROADMOOR PHARMACY!

First are the "blue jean" denim, envelope style purses from the BROADMOOR PHARMACY...priced at only $1.09! These bags have belt loops for safe wearing, zippers on the top and on the outside coin purse, and the same copper riveting used on jean pockets. Ideal, we think, as a gift for girls or women who wear jeans because it's practical—and adorable, too!

KIDDIEVILLE comes next with boys' neckties in regular or "bow" styles and a wide variety of colors and materials...ridiculously priced from 49c to 98c! Strangely enough, boys around six years or so of age think these ties are wonderful and do not put them in the groaning classification "Gee whiz, something to wear...!" Of course, if your birthday boy or girl prefers toys, KIDDIEVILLE has one of the best selections in town, so drop in anyway!

SAFE DRIVING is everyone's business these days, whether they know it or not—and the most graphic example of what happens to careless drivers is the wrecked car which stands at Mission and School streets. Set in the crushed body of the wreck is a neon lighted clock for your convenience. For your information there is a large signboard bearing the words "Drive carefully or I will buy YOUR car for salvage!" This is the advertisement of the DALY CITY AUTO WRECKERS whose acre or more of wrecked cars at Clark and Valley streets bears witness to their truthful advertising!

The DALY CITY HOBBY SHOP, located opposite the Memorial Community Center on Mission street, had us fascinated to the tune of about $4.00 last Saturday—and not regretting a penny of same! "Fun for the whole family" seems to be the unofficial motto of the shop and truer words were never spoken.

Owners Peggy and Cliff Terry impressed us most by their "selling manners" which are far above average! Nothing seems to be too much trouble for them—and when one six year old, an obvious newcomer to the hobby field, showed a tendency to clutch the first kit showed him—Mrs. Terry gave him a warm smile and dragged out kit after kit, explaining each one as she opened the boxes; patiently steering him to one he could handle. This in spite of the many other customers in the place!

The store seems to carry all sorts and kinds of items—toys, gifts, kits of cars, wagons, planes, gliders, boats etc. There are "Dresden Craft" figurine kits for sale, plus a full line of ceramic ware, liquid ceramic paint, glaze, thinner and brushes; wood burning sets with extra blocks when your kit runs out; clocks to build (real clocks, too) and best of all, the prices are right! They have kits for as little as ten cents or as much as ten dollars with lots of them in between.

Open from ten a. m. to ten p. m. every day but Sunday, this DALY CITY HOBBY SHOP is a place you must visit. And for your convenience, remember this is a "Bondified" authorized agency for money orders and post card checks for the convenience of paying bills! Try it, you'll like it!

TALK ABOUT BARGAINS in meats, take a gander this week at the FARMERS MEAT MARKET, 6386 Mission street. On the counters you will discover some really tremendous bargains in fine meat cuts. All of this is made possible by...but you had better ask the butcher for an explanation. Drop in and see Farmers Meat Market today.

MODE O'DAY FROCK SHOP, 6428 Mission street, has the answer to summer wear for milady. Here you will find excellent quality clothing for prices of a pre-inflation era. Especially interesting and cute are the blouses and inexpensive house dresses. Drop in and see Madame Lombardi today, you won't be disappointed!

LET THEM PASS

If you race with cars that are trying to pass you on the highway you are endangering your own life and the lives of others, warns the National Automobile Club. When being passed pull farther to the right and permit that other fellow to get by.

PEDESTRIAN WARNING

Here's a safety tip from the California State Automobile Association: Two cars can sometimes collide in traffic without injury to passengers, but when car and pedestrian collide, there's no escape for the man on foot. A hundred-and-fifty-pound man is no match for a three-thousand-pound car!

The national debt, measured on a per capita basis, is now 140 times what it was in 1910—$1,664 compared with $12—says the New York Journal of Commerce.

Illustrating the way consumer demand is supplied under the American system, the New York Journal of Commerce points out that producers of automobiles, television sets, appliances, etc., have manufactured enough of these articles so that they are now preparing to "glamorize" them in order to attract buyers.

J. E. Corette, vice president of Montana Power Co., relates that his company's Kerr dam in Montana cost only $11,000,000, while a government dam 50 miles away on the same watershed cost $110,000,000, although the Federal dam produces only 2½ times as much electricity as the power company's dam.

Asserting that it took the average American 139 days—from January 1 to May 19—to earn enough to pay his various 1951 tax bills, D. L. Hostetler, executive secretary of the Florida State Retailers Association, proposed that May 19 be celebrated as National Tax Freedom Holiday.

The Mother Lode gold-quartz belt of California is the best known of the State's mineralized regions.

Summer Recreation

Marchbanks Playground

By Leslie Linhares and Frank Ingersoll
Playground Directors

Ninety feet marched sprightly to Thornton Beach, with everyone arriving in the pink of condition due to the excellent assistance of Gary Attaberry, Dan Rasmussen, Anthony Stagnaro and Mrs. Kane.

Before long we could see Paul Blaik, Bob Liptack, Joan Periotti, Diana Peterson, and Gary Peterson having fun wading in the surf.

Unscheduled Swim

Although no swimming was scheduled, Bob Rasmussen aided by a huge wave did a beautiful dive, clothes and all. Bobby spent the rest of the day drying out. The happy day came to an end with a ride home in the truck of Mr. and Mrs. Stagnaro.

The Thornton Beach party is just memories now but everyone is looking forward to the Bay Excursion on July 9 and the special Marchbanks outing to Golden Gate Park on July 15.

A serious note crept into the playground activities on last Saturday morning. The children, inspired by the Cerebral Palsy TV show, went out to collect money to do their little bit for these crippled children.

Collect $25

Headed by Turpy Rasmussen, the children collected $25 in less than an hour. The money was presented to the drive by Billy and Larry Kane and Jr. Director Michael Sibitz in the name of Marchbanks Playground. This goes to prove the "kids" really know how.

Last Monday Marchbanks held its first summer ping pong tournament. As expected a large number turned out for the event. "Caddy" Leon Edwards proved the eventual winner by defeating Cathy Rassmussen in the finals. Others making a fine showing in the competition were Mike Brush and Bobby Liptack.

Youngsters of Week

Next week and each week following throughout the summer program Marchbanks will select a "boy and girl of the week." The selection will be made on the basis of attendance at the playground, participation in activities, cooperation with directors, and kindness toward others.

Winners names together with reason for their selection will appear in this column every week. Through this activity, Marchbanks directors hope to develop desirable personal and group citizenship.

The children of Marchbanks have a treat in store for them next week when a game room will be opened in the club house on the lower field. Pool, checkers, chess and games will be among the activities available.

Volley Ball

In order to accommodate the large number of teen-age boys and girls Marchbanks is offering supervised co-recreational volley ball on Friday afternoons from 2 to 3:30. Any teen-ager interested is urged to participate.

Due to the large number of boys 9 to 11 interested in baseball, Marchbanks is organizing a hardball clinic to be held in association with the already organized softball clinic. The clinics will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 to 11:30.

Teen-Age Baseball League

In the summer program's first teen-age league baseball game at Marchbanks, Walter Gillies' "Suds" defeated Leon Edwards' "Caddies" 5 to 0 behind the fine no-hit no-run pitching of Darryl Hadley.

In pitching the first no-hitter of his young career, 14-year-old Hadley was never in trouble. He struck out 8 men. Leo Lemon who pitched the last 6 innings for the Caddies allowed only 1 run and struck out 5.

Hitting stars for the "Suds" were Hadley, Bill Utne, and Pete Grasse. Each collected a pair of singles.

Daly City Seals

Marchbank Tigers

Frank Mecchi, 1B; Dave Guido, 3B; Bob Armstrong, SS; George Pedroni, P; Al Gerrans, CF; Joe Bocci, C; Vernon Wallaga, 2B; Bill Benofsky, LF; Pete Salas, RF.

Forty-two youngsters travelled with Pat Nagle and Rich Watso to Thornton Beach. A wonderful time was had by all. A basketball team has been organized to play Wednesday and Fridays and this week Folk Dancing, Badminton and Tennis got under way with the return of Miss Erickson.

Wednesday of this week many of us visited Marchbanks for the picnic and baseball school. Next week we are all going on the Bay Excursion. Be sure to get your sign-up slips.

Jefferson High Playground

By Marge Erickson & L. H. Reese
Playground Directors

The high school recreational program shifted into high gear last week as a series of activities got under way. The motion pictures on Mondays have attracted overflow crowds. Next Monday is "Canadian Pacific" with Randolph Scott.

Junior Baseball

Last Tuesday the Junior Baseball team was organized with such fellows as Jimmy and Joe Millet, Ricky Landiss, Rickey and Jimmy Lair, Ronnie Rose, Johnny Gallagher, Paul Calima, Phil Fair, Jack Lewis, and Jim Greenfield and also many others who forgot to turn in their names on the team.

The first Teen Age ball game saw the Daly City Seals defeat the Marchbank Tigers by a score of 14 to 10. Lineup for the two teams were as fololws:

Westlake Playground

By A. Bishop
Playground Director

Many of us enjoyed a grand time at the Thornton Beach party. Those who went hiking are:

Michael Lamanet, Kenneth (Buddy) Moore, Janice Culden, Peter Dunan, Ronald Krawetz, John Moore, Kenneth Schonfeld, Jeffery Tamber, Donald and David Bosberry, Eugene Riordan, Timothy Hoagland, Kenneth Frame, Gary Gross, David James, Harold and Alan Huthmacher.

We are looking forward to the playday and picnic at Marchbanks Park, and also making plans for our San Francisco Bay Excursion to be held soon.

Every afternoon we have story telling. Crafts and folk dancing also included in the program.

Edgewood Playground

By Lorraine Cady
Playground Director

The winners of last week's checker tournament were Tom Kollmann, Jean Malloy, and Tom Mays. The respective prizes were an airplane model, a jump rope, and a bottle of bubbles for booby prize.

Edgewood is holding another checker tournament beginning July 14. Some of the children who have entered are Barbara Sears, Ronald Gabbani, Frankie Sears, Jimmy Green, Sharon Daniels, Susan Rudametkin, Kay Shannon, and Patrick Pereira.

Beach Party

Nineteen boys and girls went to the Thornton Beach party. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed himself. This Wednesday many of the children are attending the picnic and playday at Marchbanks Park. Those who missed the beach party are planning for the special event.

Stevie Sears celebrated his fifth birthday Sunday, June 29. Many of the boys and girls from Edgewood attended his party Friday.

Construction has begun on an equipment building for Edgewood. A crowd has gathered to watch the men at work.

Parkview Art Center

By Eleanor Hughes

Age group—4 to 8 years. Paper folding with emphasis on creative color decoration of baskets, cut paper patterns—baskets and fans, pin wheels.

We welcomed a new adult volunteer worker, Mrs. A. Anderson, who accompanied her son and offered her services.

Nine years and older — group workers who were outstanding are Jackie Helms, Larry Arnaudo, Terry Fairchild, Robin Mills, Diane LeBrun; and David Creston especially contributed by cutting dowel sticks for fans for all centers, painted, sawed and sandpapered spools to be used in coming week's project of candle sticks for teen agers.

Volunteer

Mary Lou Jordon—original design for bracelet. Douglas Jones, a teen ager, volunteered to help all centers until he and his family go to Texas on vacation.

Age group 9 and older continued with plasticord projects — key chains, leashes, belts, model airplanes.

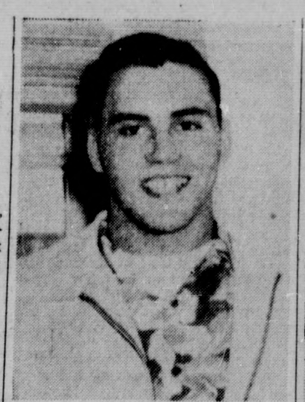
Coming week — Younger ones, paper craft will continue. Older group will continue with plasticord and decorating candle sticks made from salvaged plasticord spools.

Note: All materials used must be paid for in advance. Hours—4 to 8 years 9:30 to 10:30. 9 and older—11:00 to 12:00. Please attend at scheduled hours.

Jefferson Elementary School Playground

By Eleanore Hughes

Projects same as for Parkview. Outstanding art work for week and helpers Barbara Casentini—Mary Lewis—issues craft materials.



ALL SMILES ABOUT THE next four years to come is Pat McCool, former Jefferson high school and California grid star, who is on his way to Annapolis for officers' training. McCool won the right to attend the Naval Academy by a series of tests he successfully passed. He probably will be seen some time in the near future running the gamut for Navy.

TWO LOCAL NINES PLAY THIS SUNDAY

Two local baseball teams were unable to play their scheduled games last Sunday, but the show will go on this weekend.

Sarto AC, slated to meet the Kenealy Yankees, remained inactive. The game was called because of the death of Neal Kenealy, well-known San Francisco baseball figure.

The team will continue to play under his name, and the postponed game will probably be held this Sunday at Fitzgerald field in San Mateo at 2 p.m.

Vince and Fred's Liquors, slated to meet the Double-Play nine last Sunday at 2 p.m. at Marchbanks field, were rained out. The game has been re-scheduled for this Sunday at the same time.

To Hold Special Season For Surplus Deer

Department of Fish and Game permits for the taking of 9,850 surplus deer next January in five southern California "problem" areas will go on sale July 19.

The 16-day special season was approved by the California Fish and Game commission at its May meeting. Witnesses at public hearings held in the affected areas earlier this year urged a greater harvest of deer because of widespread fall fire closures and crop damage.

Gun Clubs Support

Most of the proposals were requested by southern California sportsmen's groups and won general public support, the department reported.

While permits for taking 7,000 bucks and 2,850 antlerless deer will be issued, game managers expect the January kill to be light. The short season, bad weather and road conditions will keep the harvest well below that of the regular season, they assert.

The $1 permits will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis at five temporary license offices. Applicants must show up with valid hunting licenses and deer tags. Application blanks are attached to each 1952 deer tag.

During the special season, January 3 to January 18, permittees may take one deer. Hunting is permitted only in the specified area of the county where the permit was issued.

SAVES GAS

Driving at a moderate speed will save gas, reports the National Automobile Club.

Diana Medley and Florence Benedetti helped issue athletic supplies. Laurine Garabaldi, special note—has not missed day this year. George Perata—this year and al llast year. Emmett Lewis, outstanding this week, art work. Barbara Baldi, fan and match box. Nancy Hopper, plasticord braided belt.

Coming week—Continue paper and plasticord projects.

Groups please observe scheduled hours. Nine and older come to help teach the younger ones.

Crocker School Playground

By Eleanor Hughes

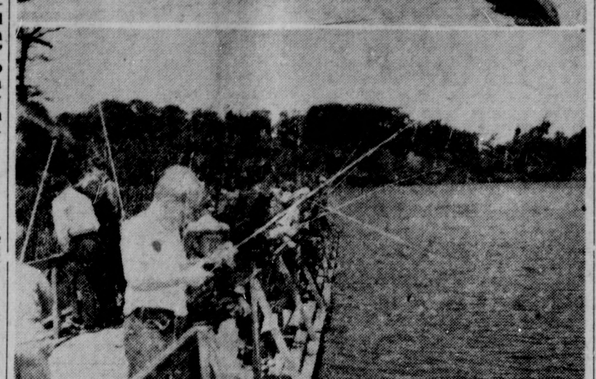
Projects same as for Parkview. Outstanding art work and helpers: Donna Amada with little children. Ira Ingersoll—good baseball poster, came to rescue in attaching sticks to wind mills by asking father to come over to give suggestions as to how to attach stick more efficiently.

Future Slate

Largest group of eight and younger Thursday. Coming week—Continue papercraft. Continue plasticord projects—belts braided—bracelets, hair clips, original designs for costume accessories.

Groups will please meet at scheduled hours—9:30 to 11:30 under 8 years—1:30 to 4:00—over eight years.

Adults — Volunteer workers needed and welcome. Older children bring young brothers and sisters and stay and help.



THERE WAS MANY A LOCAL LAD who took advantage of the Daly City Firemen's generosity last Thursday when the hose hoisters offered a free fishing trip on Lake Merced. Some 126 boys turned out to try their luck nabbing trout and bullheads. The top picture shows the boys and some of the men who made the trip possible, while the lower picture gives a good idea of the "line-up" at the lake.

Complete Plans For Lions Sponsored Fishing Day

Prizes, Refreshments To Highlight Outing

Plans for the fishing day at Lake Merced, sponsored by the Daly City-Colma Lions club and scheduled for Wednesday, July 16, are completed. All that remains is for any and all anxious anglers between the ages of 9 and 17 to sign up.

Approximately 150 youngsters are expected for the all day trek, announced Joseph Belli, Jr., chairman of the outing. They will begin fishing at 8 a.m. and continue through 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Registration

Registration—the day is open to all youngsters of the correct age in the Daly City-Colma area—may be made at playgrounds throughout Daly City and Broadmoor.

"As was previously announced in THE RECORD," said Belli, "there will be prizes given for the longest fish caught. First prize is a real, second a rod and third a line. The prizes are compliments of Gamble's Western Auto Supply of Daly City."

Transportation to and from the lake will be furnished by the Lions, who will also supervise the fishing.

Bait, tackle, lines, boats will be furnished by Jim Fox, of the Daly City Rod and Gun club.

Refreshments

The small-fry and teen-age anglers are asked to bring their own sandwiches, Belli added, but the Lions will furnish additional refreshments, including ice cream and milk.

Judging of the "Longest Fish Contest" will be Fox, Hal Willis, president of the Lions club, and Belli.

A sound truck and loud speaking system will be furnished for the outing by the Marin Dell Milk company.

The Lions will hold their weekly meeting at the lake the day of the fishing excursion, rather than at their regular meeting place. A buffet lunch will be served.

Name New Community Chest Head In San Bruno

Eugene D. Fletchall, Community Chest campaign vice-chairman for north county, has appointed Mayor Claude E. Fourie as city campaign chairman for this fall's Community Chest campaign in San Bruno.

Fourie, a native of South San Francisco, has lived in San Bruno since 1941. He is assistant to the purchasing agent of Swift and company, where he has been employed for over 17 years. He and his wife, Lorraine, and their five children live at 140 Acacia avenue.

In September, 1951, he was elected to the San Bruno city council, and in May, 1952, was chosen mayor.

He is busy now building an organization for the campaign, and the various chairmen will be announced later.

SPORTSMAN'S CALENDAR

The Department of Fish and Game reminds California sportsmen of the following general regulations which apply to current hunting and fishing:

Nation's Greatest Kegglers Will Show Form Saturday

With an entry list reading like "Bowling's Who's Who," Brentwood Bowl officials announced today that a bevy of the nation's greatest pin stars are ready to roll in the gala "Parade of Champions" event at the South San Francisco lanes Saturday night at eight o'clock.

Bowling stars from nearly every Western state, plus the famed Detroit All-Stars, national match game champions, tossed practice games at Brentwood this week in preparation for the champions parade. Brentwood's sixteen lanes have been newly resurfaced for their first major league bowling show at the year-old pine palace.

A limited number of reserved seats are still available.

Leading Parade

Leading the Parade of Champions will be the invading Detroiters with Lee Jouglard, "Bowler of the Year"; and veteran 215 average bowler Nick Fazio, and equally adept teammates Bill Bunetta, Tony Lindemann, and Fred Bujack.

They'll face eager competition in a quintet of Brentwood All Stars, including "Babe" DeLuca of South San Francisco, Kent Rose of Burlingame; Bob Wild, San Bruno; "Skeets" Inouye, San Mateo; "Dusty" Lawhon, United Air Lines; and alternate Bill Biber of San Carlos.

The locals may find the range on the familiar alleys and give the Detroit stars something to shoot at.

Exhibitions

Star-studded squads from Salt Lake, Denver, Los Angeles, Portland and the Northern California Champion Mary & Joes squad from Albany, will vie in eight exhibition match games.

Top flight pin stars slated to roll Saturday night are: Hank Laumans, Max Gardens, Joey and Steve Nagy, Rollie Homling, Toye Lindblad, "Red" Elkins, Billy Mack, Doug Muir, Frisco Burnett, Kyle Coles, and Ev Collins of San Carlos.

Fuzzy Shimada and Jun Kurmada, the two high average Nisei bowlers in the country, will face each other in a feature match.

The match games will be staged across Brentwood's sixteen lanes. A special match features the Brentwood Juniors against the Park Bowl kids.

Ken Davis is the master of ceremonies.

Brentwood Bowl is located just north of Tanforan off the El Camino Highway in South San Francisco.

Outdoor Writers Urge State Tidelands Control

Resolutions urging state conservation agencies to expand at least five per cent of their budgets for information and education work, and asking that Congress allow the states to administer fish and wildlife in the disputed tidelands areas have been adopted by members of the Outdoor Writers Association of America, western division, in their first annual convention.

Joe Mears, Pasadena newspaperman, was re-elected president of the 11-state group, which held concurrent meetings with the 32nd annual conference of the Western Association of State Game and Fish Commissioners at Glacier Park, Montana.

The writers urged Congress to "take every action necessary to make fish and wildlife resources in the tidelands areas the legal property of the respective States."

It was pointed out that under a recent supreme court ruling, all resources of the coastal waters might come under control of the Federal government.

"Because the western states have fallen dangerously behind in maintaining information and education activities in fish and game departments, they should apply not less than five per cent of their total budgets for dissemination of information and education," it was asserted.

Adult Softball Is Booming, Reports Rec. Supervisor

Seven Clubs Battle Each Week In League Play At High School

By Joe Ballarin
Recreation Supervisor

Recreation is a far reaching activity including a multitude of sports and adventure for a large percentage of our youngsters. However, recreation is also leisure time enjoyment for adults as witness the Adult Softball League.

This League consists of seven groups, by name: Lincoln Lions, Daly City Fire Dept., Sterling Fire Dept., Sterling Park, Colma Fire Dept., Plumbers, Lawson's Diner, and 21 Club.

Games Played

To date, there have been three games played: Colma Fire vs. Lincoln Lions, Lawson's Diner vs. Sterling Park, and 21 Club vs. Daly City Fire Dept. The first mentioned teams were the victors in the league so far.

Actually the Lincoln Lions is a group of teenagers sponsored by the warm-hearted belief in recreation of the Daly City Lions Club. The same is true of the Daly City Fire Dept. which led by Lawrence Kennedy of the force, has young players batting against some of our younger old-timers.

Dispute

The umpires have had to defend their calls several time by resorting to the rule book—with the pitcher throwing an overhand pitch (with a man on third) what happened? Well come out and watch the games at 6:30 on the high school diamonds: Tuesday, July 8, Plumbers vs. Lawson's Diner and Lawrence Kennedy's Fire Boys get hot against the Lincoln Lions. Thursday, July 10, the Lincoln Lions will again return to bad fame against the "21" Club.

On the Lions Club are the Wilson boys (Jack just returned from Korea and graduated from Jeff, Gene Lorenzo and Bob Murchison to mention a few.

HAVE HEADLIGHTS CHECKED

Have your headlights checked occasionally, advises the National Automobile Club. Even on the best of cars headlight adjustments are not permanent and rough pavements can throw them out of line, throw them out of focus, and make the glare from them a serious highway menace.

At the outset today, fellows, Old Hi would like to greet many new friends who have joined our little gab-fests this season. We're happy to have you with us, and would be glad to hear from you often.

Just drop a line to your old guide, in care of this newspaper, if you have any questions you'd like answered, or if there is some angle you want dwelt upon. My whole aim is to make these weekly gatherings of interest and value to you . . . so let me know what phase of fishing concerns you the most.

Laziness, you know, is one of the biggest causes for ruined tackle. You have to put a bit of effort into cleaning the reel, line, and rod after each trip if you want to prolong their life to the fullest extent. Grit, fish slime or blood, and water scum have to be washed off or these clog the mechanism or eat into the finish.

If you fish in salt water it's especially necessary to wash off all salty residue that has collected on your reel, line, and rod; otherwise these will corrode quickly. If you have any doubt of this, just fail to clean your tackle in fresh water after one ocean angling trip and you'll regretfully note the results.

Be sure to keep the hook points sharpened, and you'll land more fish. Test the snells and also the nylon leaders; don't take chances on worn or brittle connecting links. After fairly long usage, reverse the lines on your reels so that the strongest portions are at the fighting end.

If you surf cast, still fish, or troll for the ocean species along the Atlantic or Pacific Coast, and are wondering what size hook is best suited for certain fish, just drop a postcard to Old Hi and he'll be glad to send you free copies of his illustrated booklets called "Salt Water Sports Fishing" and "Pacific Coastal Fishing." A lot of fellows are trying their luck along the seashores for the first time each season, and the books mentioned tell what tackle and methods are most successful.

Did you know that spin fishing is really going over big in taking many of the inshore varities of ocean fighters? Just give it a try on stripers, bonefish, weakfish, salmon, shad, mackerel, etc. this year . . . and you'll see what I mean!

You can now get a spinning rod especially adapted for salt water sport. It's the new Sea Master tubular glass ocean spinning rod with 6 graduated guides on the tip. It has a 19-inch lower grip and a 6¾ foot tip. This rod weighs 9 ounces, and can handle some rugged scrappers.

For bass and trout fishing thrills, and an insight into the making of solid tubular glass rods, be sure to see Old Hi's new colored movie called "Fishing With H-I Power Glass Rods." You can see it free of charge by getting your tackle dealer to arrange for a booking date, then rounding up a bunch of your fishing pals for a showing.

Here's your chance to see Old Hi in action, and know what makes your glass fly or bait casting rod outlast those of other types.
